TREED BY A BEAR.

A STORY OF THE KENNEBEC WILDERNESS.

What I am about to relate I heard from the lips of the hero of the affair in the winter of 1801, 70 years ago. An old man, as I now am, of 82, naturally loves to dwell upon the legends of his younger days, especially such as are true, and truth is sometimes stranger than fiction.

Major Dennis Getchell was an early settler in Sidney, then a part of Vassalboro. He settled on the west side of the Kennebec, nearly opposite Vassalboro Corner. At the time of the affair alluded to, Major Getchell was confined to his home by a cancer, and sent his son Remington, a stout young fellow of sixteen, to the West Pond, settlement for Dr. Williams, who happened to be visiting there. The distance was about five miles through the woods. He went through, having with him a well trained dog, did his message, and after resting and taking some refreshments, was about to set out on his journey home.

When he entered the woods the sun was about an hour high. He had not proceeded far when he saw his dog pursuing a cub. He thought at first he would help him capture the cub and carry it home with him; but he immediately thought of the old bear, and expecting that she would be upon him in a minute, he sprang to the nearest tree, which was a slim Norway pine, running up between 40 and 50 feet, without a limb. The lean, sparingly fed boys of that day could climb trees much better than the full fed lads of the present. When he had got up about eight or ten feet he saw the bear coming after him. He called out to his dog which made a furious attack upon the bear behind. She fearing for her cub, immediately turned back and chased the dog off and around for a considerable time. Remington in the meantime exerted himself to the utmost. She came back to the tree again but the faithful dog was at her heels. She then turned and chased him off as before.

This was again repeated, which gave Remington time to reach the first limb; he got hold of it and drew himself on to it much exhausted, and stood upon it with his arms around the tree.

After awhile the bear, either disregarding the dog, or perhaps he had been disabled or killed in the fight, began to ascend. It was now that Remington began to give himself over for lost. The poor fellow had no means of defending himself, and could see no prospect but that of being dragged down from that fearful height, and torn in pieces by the infuriated beast.

Up came the fiend, steadily advancing, intent upon her trembling victim, "like a staunch murderer steady to his promise." She soon reached him, and reached forward with open jaws and glaring eyeballs to seize him by the foot. He drew it back and with a convulsive—a superhuman effort—he dealt with it heavy and rapid blows upon her neck and head. This was a reception she was not prepared for, and she was obliged to take it quietly, not having the use of her fore paws. A bear without the use of these weapons is quite harmless; unless she can get a hold with her teeth. Her hold was immediately broken, and she lost her balance and fell. This could hardly have been caused by the force of the blows, considering the strength of the bear's grasp.

It is the first impulse of a bear, when attacked, if resisted, to strike with her fore paws. Prompted by this instinct, she had probably let go her hold upon the tree to strike at Getchell, still retaining a feeble hold by her hind legs; but her instinct for once proved a failure, for being directly underneath him, she naturally swayed herself back to bring her paws to bear, and the blow coming at the same instant, she let go, the recoil quickened her movement and she lost her equilibrium.

Turning a somersault, head down, tail up, her bearship, in accordance with the law of gravitation, soon landed on terra firma at a distance of about forty feet in a perpendicular line from where she started. She sat upon her haunches for some time, looking up the tree, as though considering what to do next. She was not probably highly pleased with her aerial excursion, and upon mature reflection thought she would not climb that unlucky tree again, but finally ascended another near by and sat upon a tree looking at Getchell, gnashing her teeth and growling.

It was now growing dark. Remington had been crying an hour for help, but no help came. He had heard men chopping half a mile off, but the wind being contrary they could not hear him. As the sound of the axes ceased, his hope left him; but as a kind providence had ordered it, a woman was out near the edge of the woods, looking for her cow, her husband being absent, and heard Remington's cries. Her husband returned home after dark and she told him what she had heard, and earnestly besought him to go and get help and ascertain what the trouble was. He declined going, saying the noise she heard was that of a screech owl. But she insisted that it was a human voice, and begged of him to go. At length yielding to her entreaties, he mounted a horse and rode into the woods in the direction she pointed out, and soon heard Remington's voice. Pursuing in the direction of the sound, he soon got within speaking distance, and calling to him inquired what was the matter. On being informed, the man replied that he rather thought he was only frightened, and advised him to come down. At that moment the bear hearing the man's voice, commenced to growl furiously, which so frightened the horse that he reared and pranced around, throwing the man to the ground. Fortunately, however, he held on to the bridle reins, and remounting, started off for help, calling to Remington to be of good courage, and he would return as soon as possible with help.

Remington had given up all hopes of a rescue and had nearly sunk into despair. He now felt his hopes revive, but it was a forlorn hope. He doubted not that the help would come, but his strength was so nearly exhausted, and his nerves so disordered, that he feared it would not come in season to help him. He thought he could not keep his hold on the tree but a short time longer.

In about three quarters of an hour after the man left him, he heard the distinct sound of voices, and soon saw the gleam of lights through the trees. A large party had been raised, who, with guns, ammunition and torches, hastened to the rescue. They were accompanied by a large number of men, women, boys and girls, all with torch-lights.

The remainder of the story is soon told. They built a large fire, by the light of which they could take good and certain aim at the bear, who was still on her perch in the tree, and now remained there to keep out of harm's way; but she had not been initiated into the science of gunpowder and ball. They soon brought her down, but not until they had fired ten or twelve shots. Remington came safely down, though at great hazard of falling. He was carried home next morning to his anxious friends.

The fright and over exertion he had endured had shattered his constitution and nervous system, and though he had been an uncommonly strong and athletic youth, he was ever after comparatively weak. He would never venture into the woods alone, and the mere chipping of a squirrel would make him nervous. He died in 1820 or thereabouts, before reaching his sixtieth year.

The Maine Republicans and the Tariff.

Mr. N. G. Hichborn, president of the Maine Shipbuilders' Association, has given to a correspondent of the Boston Post his opinion of the effect of the tariff in reducing the population and destroying the industry of that state. Mr. Hichborn has always been an active Republican, and has held some important offices. He was for several years treasurer of Maine. He has not been known as a free trader, but his efforts to obtain from Congress relief for the shipbuilding interest have given him a good opportunity to observe the manner in which "protection" is secured, and he appears to have lost confidence in the system.

Mr. Hichborn says that the tariff makes it impossible to build ships at a profit, and has thus seriously depressed the industries of the state. Before the war, his own village, Stockton, used to build ten or fifteen large vessels every year; now it builds only one or two little vessels. Within a year one hundred mechanics have left his village, and Mr. Hichborn thinks that thirty thousand mechanics have left the state within two or three years, because they have lost all hope of being relieved of the burdens of the tariff.

He adds that there is now "a very fair demand for ships; but this high tariff prevents us from competing with foreign built vessels. Reduce this tariff so as to increase exports and imports, unfetter our ships, and all business would at once resume its wonted channels." Mr. Hitchborn does not regard this condition of affairs with complacency. "I tell you," said he, "that so rank injustice was never done any people as is now done to the State of Maine. Is a man with one particle of state pride going to tie himself up to party and calmly stand by and see his state destroyed?"

Walks About Town.

BY OUR CURBSTONE REPORTER.

Several walks through Thames street, the chief business thoroughfare of the city, has convinced me, more fully than ever, that the people of Newport owe it to themselves and to the fair fame of the town, to make better provision for the growing business of the place. I hear that during the winter season, a good many people who have little else to do, amuse themselves by talking of widening this avenue of trade, but I cannot learn that the matter has been taken hold of with anything of that earnestness which becomes a matter of so much importance. The amount of talk expended on the subject may have been sufficient, so far as it goes, but unfortunately this matter always ends where it begins—in talk. Now, I do not pretend to say whether what is thus proposed is the best method of avoiding the present evils or not; but I do know that something should be done. The increased value of the property on the street, would itself be sufficient to pay all the expense, and if Newport were a western town, action would have followed words long before this.

My experience on Thames street, is by no means peculiar. I can therefore tell no tales not already familiar. Everybody knows that carriages, phaetons, drays, omnibusses, express wagons and dog carts interlock at every corner, and that crowds of men and vehicles, all in each other's way, may be seen as an every day's occurrence. Talk about the rush on Broadway! It does not equal that of Thames street on a fine summer's morning. The Broadway crowd may be wider and longer, but it is not half so dense. Its solidity is as nothing, compared with ours. The New Yorkers propose railways underneath and railways overhead, and set all the inventive genius they posses at work, and why should not we?

Some people tell me that it is proposed to open a new street along side the water to the eastward of Thames street, which I think would also be a paying investment. The fact is, Newport is destined to grow; and if her people are willing, business will increase so that both these improvements will be needed. I say, if the people are willing, because I find a good many here, who are not pleased at the prospect of successful enterprises of any kind. You know, Mr. Editor, who they are. Have you not heard them, whenever a man started a new enterprise, make themselves hoarse in crying it down? Why, sir, there isn't a curbstone in town over which their bitter tears have not run in rivulets. They are a race of weeping Jeremiahs, and they do nothing but bemoan the follies of those who venture out of the beaten tracks of the fathers and grandfathers. If you propose to establish a factory, they shake their wise heads and say it will not pay. Just mention commerce, and they show the richness of their historic lore, by telling what a wonderful business was done, years ago, when rum and molasses were in their glory, and the town had plenty of ships to carry the proceeds of the twenty two distilleries that were in full blast in the town. But it is of no use now,—there is no rum to export and but little molasses. The good old times, say they, can never return. The old Jew merchants have moved away, the fathers are dead, and there is nobody to take their places.

This is the kind of argument I hear on every side. But I know better than to put confidence in these croakers. Newport is to grow. Her borders are rapidly extending, and her business reviving. The old time streets are too narrow for the stirring times in which we live. Young America wants room, and must have it, and young America will soon see to it, that the prosperity of this beautiful city is not crippled for want of space. Whether it is best to widen Thames street, or build a new highway alongside the water is more than I am able to determine. But something should be done and that right early.

And then, there is Long Wharf which is a burning disgrace to the town. I have tried to find out why it is, that this most public highway should be kept in such a deplorable condition. It is the gate of the city, through which all the people pass, in approaching or leaving the town. Running out by the side of our splendid harbor, in full view of the numerous vessels that dot the waters, and with historical reminiscences of the richest character, it ought to be the loveliest street in Newport. But it is far from it. I will not discribe it. Both you, Mr. Editor, and all your readers know what it is. You have stumbled over the broken sidewalks, and plunged into its mantraps of mud and slosh, or if you are among the favored ones that travel in a manner that makes you independent of the curbstone, and accustomed to go and come in carriages, you have tested the quantity and quality of the filth to your hearts content. You know it is a shameful imposition on the general public, and so do I.

But, you may possibly ask, who is to blame? That is just what I have been trying to find out. I am told there is a doubt as to who is the rightful and responsible owner of this public street. Perhaps there is.

And it is a mighty doubt.

The owners and occupants alongside, doubt.

The Mayor, Aldermen, and members of the Common Council, doubt.

The City Marshal, and Captain of the Police, doubt,

The High Sheriff, doubts.

The Constables, doubt.

The boat builders, doubt.

The fishermen, doubt.

The taxpayers doubt.

The non taxpayers, doubt.

Everybody, doubts.

Long Wharf is the most doubtful thing in the world. It has been the occasion of these doubts for a hundred years. Not one of the doubters will do a thing to put the street in order until the doubts are all removed. And yet there is one point concerning which nobody raises a question. It is this—the right to put the street in order. If the city were to grade, curb, gravel, or otherwise repair it, no man would object. If the private claimants were to do the same, no man would object. Then why not do it: echo answers, why?

Allow me, Mr. Editor, to make one plea for old Newport. In the dazzle of the new avenues, the growth and fashion of the new town, we have almost forgotten the claims of the venerable streets that were trod by our fathers. They need repairing and enlarging, and the business interests of the place need looking after. The time has come when this should be no longer delayed.—The city fathers should open the way forwarding and reviving business. Newport is not dead, and is not going to die. And this is the day and the hour when the new life should be welcomed and nourished until we can cease telling what the fathers did, and delight, the rather, to point to the deeds of the sons, which shall prove worthy of the fathers.

The Cliff Cottage Association have in contemplation the erection of a large hotel on their grounds and have secured additional land for that purpose. It was voted at the recent meeting of stockholders to increase the capital and to proceed to immediate improvements.

A few days since the Providence Journal published an article on "The Planets in August." The Hartford Post stole it; and today the Providence Herald has the same article, giving credit for it to the Post.—Query; does the Herald man read the papers?

The Providence Herald says the man who started the fable that carbolic acid would keep off flies and mosquitoes has since died overwhelmed with remorse. The scene at the deathbed was horrible and appalling. This is "local," because we assisted in gaining credence for this most infamous swindle, which having crept into a position, where it was vouched for by authority usually unimpeachable, we publish without sufficient trial. We almost died when we attempted to see how it was for ourselves.

THE CUTTER.—The revenue Cutter Mocassin left New York Friday morning and returned to Newport last night. She passed off Block Island, the sloop Saratoga bound eastward, and the Constellation at anchor off the Pier.

DUTCH ISLAND.—Work is progressing at Dutch Island. The government has torn down the barracks, near New Haven and sent them to Dutch Island where they are to be made into workshops.

CRIBBING.—The Evening Express publishes an article as original, entitled "Gayety and Death at Newport," and receives credit therefore in several other papers. The credit belongs to the Boston Transcript, where it first appeared in a letter from the regular correspondent of that paper.

PERSONALS.—Senator Anthony is in town today.

Gov. Jewel and Mrs. Jewel of Conn. are at the Ocean House.

Park Godwin and daughter, of New York are also at the Ocean House. So is Prof. Hitchcock of N. H.

WIESE'S ORCHESTRA.—The open air concerts on Bellevue avenue given by the New York Germania Orchestra have met with great success. Mr. Wiese is busily engaged in completing the collection of the subscription list and we herewith warn all those interested not to pay any money to any one except Mr. Wiese himself.

ENTERTAINMENT.—Mrs. Boone, of the celebrated "Boone family," who were here several years ago and met with a great success, will give a reading at the Ocean House sometime within a few days. Mrs. Boone is an authoress of considerable note, and has recently written a new work which is meeting with great success. The entertainment which she proposes to give, will be one of much interest.

THE AMERICAN STEAM SAFE COMPANY.—The superintendent of the company, George L. Damon, on Thursday last, contracted to erect a "welded iron and steel" vault of great size, with two thousand separate boxes, for the use of special depositors, all of which completed, weighing about one hundred and thirty tons, will form one of the largest pieces of safe work ever sent out from the factory of the company.

ANOTHER RACE.—A Rhode Island yacht race will take place next Friday, in which our people ought to have especial interest. The yacht Haswell of Pawtuxet, well known as the victor in several contests in our Bay, and belonging to the New York Yacht Club, and the yacht Sadie of Beverly, Mass., and belonging to the Eastern Yacht Squadron are the contestants. The course will be ten miles to sea and return, starting probably from the Brenton Reef Light Ship. The prize to be contested will be a piece of silver, for which each of the contending parties subscribes two hundred and fifty dollars. The Haswell is now preparing for the race at Pawtuxet, having her bottom scraped, etc.

SUNDAY SERVICES.—Rev. A. H. Strong, D. D., of Cleveland, O., will preach at the First Baptist church, tomorrow afternoon, services commencing at three o'clock.

REV. MR. Coquerell of Paris will preach at Rev. Mr. Brooks' Church tomorrow forenoon.

The Rev. Dr. Mason, of Cambridgeport, Mass., will preach at the Central Baptist Church, tomorrow on exchange with their pastor Mr. Wheeler.

OUR VISITORS.—The last of the New York Yacht Squadron arrived in our harbor yesterday. All came in safe from their cruise eastward except the Fleet Wing, which was damaged, as we stated yesterday, in a heavy sea off Polluck's Reef. She was towed into our harbor by one of the steam yachts. The yachts report rough weather on Thursday and a rough passage from the Cape to the Vineyard.

The Dauntless, Columbia, and Dreadnaught, had a trial of speed from Nantasket Roads to the Vineyard in which the Columbia came in about fifteen minutes ahead. All three yachts behaved remarkably well but the Columbia astonished every one. They left Holmes Hole Thursday morning for Newport, and made the passage without any particular excitement, as the wind was fair, though light, and the time made was slow compared with that of the preceeding days. The Gracie arrived ahead, next followed the Columbia, then the Dauntless, and the Dreadnaught. Today the yachtmen are busy preparing for the races of next week.

The following is we believe the correct list of the vessels and their owners; Dauntless, Com. James Gordon Bennett; Columbia, R. Com. F. Osgood; Sappho, V. Com. W. Douglass; Dreadnaught, Capt. Samuels; Vesta, Capt, Baker; Wanderer, Capt. Louis Lorillard; Idler, Capt. T. C. Durant; Tarolinta, Capt. H. A. Kent; Halcyon Capt. J. H. Smith; Magic, Capt. L. Wallack; Rambler, Capt. H. Banker; Resolute, Mr. A. S. Hatch; Foam, Capt. Heman; Eva, Capt. Macy; Sprite, Capt. Nickerson; Caprice, Mr. Sears; Dawn, Capt. Skelton; Tidal Wave; Viadex, Capt. Center; Gracie, Capt. Krebs; Vixen, Capt. Livingston; Alarm; Sadie; Madgie; Elaine, and Halcyon; Palmer; Addie; Fleur de Lis, and Rambler.

[For the News.]

MR. EDITOR:—Few Americans who have been in Paris, can fail to have heard the fame, (if not the voice,) of that eloquent Apostle of Christianity and Religious Freedom, Athanase Coquerel. It was the privilege of some of us to hear him in the winter of 1865, when he was a very old man, and the fervor and grace of his persuasive eloquence left an ineffaceable impression on our hearts.

His son, who bears his name, and well wears his mantle, combines a fine scholarship with an earnest and practical Christian humanity, both well proved in the religious and political trials through which he has passed.

He has just arrived in this country, and it will be a great pleasure to many to hear that he will speak in the Unitarian Church tomorrow, (Sunday) morning, at 10 1-2 o'clock.

Mr. Coquerel is a grand-nephew of Helen M. Williams, famous for her letters from France after the first Revolution, and endeared to us by the Hymn, beginning "While thee I seek, Protecting Power," and many others which have long been favorites in our churches.

Mr. C. comes (we hear) to plead the cause of Religious Liberty and Christian Liberality in his native land, and in this hour of her trial, he will be heard with peculiar interest.

Narragansett Pier.

The second grand ball of the season took place at the Tower Hill House at Narragansett Heights Wednesday evening. The hotel was handsomely decorated with flowers and illuminated with chinese lanterns. For an hour after dark there were fireworks on the lawn and the Peacedale band gave a fine promenade concert on the piazza previous to the opening of the hop.

The toilets worn by the ladies present, who were either guests of the house, or came up from the other hotels, were very elegant and the parlor presented a brilliant scene.—A supper was provided by the landlord who spared no pains nor expense to render the evening one long to be remembered by his guests. Among the ladies present were Mrs. Senator Sprague, in pale blue silk; Mrs McAllister of Phila., in two shades of wood color; Mrs. J. H. Hentz of Phila., in white moire, black thread lace overdress; Miss Hood of New York, in black silk, white muslin overdress; Miss Wood of New York, in mauve silk and white muslin and Miss Kimball, Miss Willard and Miss Bates of New York who are stopping at the hotel.

The Tower Hill House kept by Mr. A. Parker is one of the largest hotels at the Pier, and almost beautifully located a mile and a half back from the steamboat landing on the Heights, which command a magnificent view of the surrounding country. The hotel is a first class house and it is worth a long journey to obtain such a view of land and sea as its piazza affords. Newport, Point Judith, Block Island and Gay Head are visible and the eye reaches way into the sound and far up the bay. In the valley are nestled the pretty villages of Peacedale, Rocky Brook and Wakefield and in the vicinity of the hotel is a chain of little lakes which add greatly to the picturesqueness and beauty of the scenery. Fine drives have been made, beautiful villa sites laid out and pretty cottages built on these highlands and another year the hotel will be doubled in size.

Carriages are always at the boat to convey passengers free of expense to the hotel and all guests are sent to the beach and provided with bathing houses without charge. We have no fears that any resort in New England will ever rival or eclipse Newport, but we believe that Narragansett Heights is destined to become a popular watering place.—We confess to seeing no charm in the cluster of glaring, white boarding houses in the sand down by the landing, where there is no green thing, and it was not until we stood on the Heights, several hundred feet above the sea that we had a realizing sense of the attractions of our sister resort.

The auction sale of villa sites will not take place until the 14th, of September, it having been postponed owing to a storm on Thursday. An improvement company is laying out a large tract of land after carefully considered plans and they now intend building cottages similar to the Cliff avenue cottages here to be conducted in the same manner.

New Shoreham.

THE BLOCK ISLAND BREAKWATER.

The prospectively splendid and imposing structure is at present mostly inferential, but a good sized force is now busily at work on it. It will be remembered that a vote of the Rhode Island Legislature urged upon Congress the propriety of appropriations for a breakwater at Block Island. Appropriations were accordingly made to the amount of $105,000, first $30,000 and afterward $75,000. It is estimated however that it will take over $2,000,000 to carry through such work as shall be of eminent and lasting benefit to our coasting trade. The business in hand at present is only a comparatively small work and of temporary utility. It is constructed to form a haven for the vessels that bring the stone for the structure, which is all conveyed from Stony Creek, Conn. It is intended to have this work completed during the fall, or at farthest in the course of the winter, including the accomplishment of a deal of dredging, that an equal depth of from four to six feet may be established throughout the whole of the sheltered portion. This minor sea wall will be about six hundred feet in length, and extends about four hundred and fifty already, but is only partially built up, 'crib work,' as it is technically termed, being used. Large frames of timber are placed, and the space included is filled up with stones. The width of this base and buttress part of the structure is thirty feet.—The sea wall proper will be fifteen feet in width, built on, in, and upon this crib work and of hewn stones, each from six to eight tons in weight. It may be necessary to build more than one wall on the sheltered side, the lee side, as it were, and then the space between is to be thoroughly dredged, cleared and deepened, and strong wing walls, as they are called, set up. The continuance of the main work, and its final completion when the preparatory work, which we have been describing is finished, will depend on the readiness of Congress to furnish appropriations. Even if the money is forthcoming as speedily as desirable, the magnitude of the work will require from eight to ten years for completion. Thirty workmen now find steady employment in connection with the breakwater business besides the teamsters who attend to the sixteen yoke of oxen used. General G. K. Warren has the direction and final control of the work, though he has visited the island but once since the enterprise was first entered upon about a year ago, but his large experience and the skill and tried ability of his deputy, Captain J. P. Cotton, give earnest that what is done will be well done, and as speedily as is consistent with thoroughness. Captain Cotton has had the direct supervision of the operations and has been present at the island most of the time. During his absence, the courteous and efficient assistant engineer, from whom we derived our information and who showed us every kindness, has control and we are assured exhibits great aptitude and ability in his department. The necessity and importance of the construction of a breakwater here is shown by the fact that as many as two hundred coasters have resorted here at one time for shelter. Sixty were lying off the island on Wednesday. The work is intended for the benefit of such craft, and for the nurture of the coasting trade of the country, and even if the plans are carried out with the utmost fullness and perfection, the enterprise will not be much benefit to general commerce, and cannot afford sufficient accommodation for a multitude of large ships such as are engaged in our foreign trade.—The designs for the work are contingent on the action of Congress, and of course subject to modification as the temper of that body may vary, but if carried out with the largeness of spirit and perfection of detail contemplated by those who have the matter in hand, cannot fail of great usefulness, and of credit to the men who initiated the work, to those who designed the plans, to those who carried them out, and to the country that paid the bills.

Tiverton.

Mr. Alexander O. Cook, of Fall River, has purchased of Mr. Charles F. Seabury, one acre of land on Tiverton Heights, opposite Fort Hill, for the erection of summer residences.

Martha's Vineyard.

The Vineyard folks mean to keep alive in the matter of growth, and are making hay when the sun shines. A new chapel, costing $10,000, is being completed; over one hundred new cottages are going up at Oak Bluffs; a park is laid out and fenced into plots, with concrete walks on three sides; and other improvements of importance too numerous to mention are either completed or intended. There is no mistake in saying that the Vineyard is a bit of land especially created for good people to take comfort in, and that it deserves all the commendation it gets. Just now it is especially favored by the presence of sundry great lights in the political firmament, whose precious radiance equals or eclipses the glory of the "toad that rays darkness." Hope they won't corrupt the Vineyard beyond the power of the camp-meeting and ocean to cleanse. [News.

Help for the Nervous.

Where is it to be found? cries the trembling victim of nervous debility. Not in the tavern drams that fires up the circulation for a moment, and is succeeded by collapse. Not in purgative pills, or a Lenten diet, but in an invigorant and restorative in which the tonic elements are united with gentle aperient and alterative properties. When Hostetter's Stomach Bitters was introduced nearly twenty years ago, this important object was first attained. This peaceful and active vegetable specific is as justly celebrated for its cures of nervous diseases, as for the absolute certainty with which it relieves dyspepsia and biliousness. The hot weather toward the close of summer generally aggravates diseases of a nervous type, creating a degree of feebleness which is beyond measure distressing. Under such circumstances rally the bodily energies with a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Of all tonics, it is the most satisfactory in its operations, and the least exciting. It braces the nerves up to their natural tension, but not beyond it, so there is no reaction. It has other properties, however, than those of a nervine, and as a blood depurent and moderate aperient, is superior to any other medicine of the day.

Fraud, however, is on the alert. The celebrity of the original medicine has given rise to scores of counterfeits and imitations. Examine the label, and the fac simile of the signature of the firm; see that the spelling is all correct, and thus make sure of the genuineness of the article you buy. P. S.—Hostetter's Bitters are never sold in kegs or barrels, but in bottles only.

J. F. HOLMES, Esq.

SIR:—I have examined the GUARDIAN LIGHTNING ROD AND POINTS, constructed of Galvanized Iron with spiral twist, copper couplings and gilded points and consider it to be constructed on scientific principles, and to afford efficient protection against damage by lightning.

Yours, respectfully,

JOHN H. APPLETON,
Professor of Chemistry.

In all, with three or four exceptions, old rods were removed which were found to be in the worst possible condition, defective at the joints and badly eaten up with rust.

Parties who desire to have their Rods examined by leaving their orders at the Office of STEWART'S STABLES, Pelham street, or with S. T. HUBBARD, Grocer, foot of Washington Square, will be promptly attended to free of charge by the undersigned, Agent of the Guardian Lightning Rod Co.

First Mortgage Joint Bond

OF

THREE NEW ENGLAND RAILROAD COMPANIES.

(PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD), COMPRISING THE

VERMONT DIVISION

OF THE

PORTLAND & OGDENSBURG TRUNK R. R. LINE,

CONNECTING

The Lakes and the Atlantic by Much the Shortest Route.

THIS ROAD is being built and managed by New England BUSINESS MEN, who have invested largely in the CAPITAL STOCK, and whose experience and reputation guarantee the most THOROUGH CONSTRUCTION of the Road, and at the same time insure the most HONORABLE CONDUCT of ITS AFFAIRS.

The Road is so situated as to secure to itself AT ONCE the largest PLEASURE TRAVEL OF ANY RAILROAD IN THE EASTERN STATES, connecting, as it will by the shortest route, SARATOGA, LAKES GEORGE AND CHAMPLAIN with MT. MANSFIELD, LAKES MEMPHREMAGOG and WILLOUGHBY, and the WHITE MOUNTAINS. Independent of the through freight and passenger traffic, which must at once fall upon its completion, in consequence of it being the SHORTEST ROUTE to the sea-board, the earnings from the LOCAL BUSINESS will be sufficient to pay all running expenses and the interest on its SMALL BONDED DEBT.

Cash subscriptions, to the STOCK of the Road, have already been made nearly sufficient to complete the Road ready for the iron. The bonds are coupon or registered, and are in denominations of $1,000, $500, and $100.

The interest is SIX PER CENT IN GOLD, payable semi-annually, in Boston, May 1 and November 1. These Bonds are offered until further notice at 90 and accrued interest in currency, and we recommend them to savings banks, holders of trust funds and all others having money to invest as FIRST-CLASS SECURITIES.

NEWPORT DAILY NEWS

[illegible] Legend.
1797.
BY BRET HARTE.

They ran through the streets of the seaport town,
They peered from the decks of the ships where they lay.
The cold sea fog that came whitening down
Was never as cold or as white as they.
"Ho, Starbuck and Pinckney and Tenterden!
Run for your shallops, gather your men,
Scatter your boats on the lower bay."

Good cause for fear! In the thick midday
The hulk that lay by the rotting pier,
Filled with the children in happy play,
Parted its moorings and drifted clear,
Drifted clear beyond reach or call,—
Thirteen children there were in all,—
All adrift in the lower bay!

Said a hard-faced skipper, "God help us all!
She will not float till the turning tide!"
Said his wife, "My darling will hear my call,
Whether in sea or heaven she bide."
And she lifted a quavering voice and high,
Wild and strange as a sea-bird's cry,
Till they shuddered and wondered at her side.

The fog drove down on each laboring crew,
Veiled each from each and the sky and shore.
There was not a sound but the breath they drew,
And the lap of water and creak of oar;
And they felt the breath of the downs fresh blown
O'er leagues of clover and cold gray stone,
But not from the lips that had gone before.

They come no more. But they tell the tale
That, when fogs are thick on the harbor reef,
The mackerel fishes shorten sail,
For the signal they know will bring relief,—
For the voices of children still at play
In the phantom hulk that drifts away
Through channels whose waters never fail.

It is but a foolish shipman's tale,
A theme for a poet's idle page,
But still when the mists of doubt prevail,
And we lie becalmed by the shores of Age,
We hear from the misty troubled shores
The voice of the children gone before,
Drawing the soul to its anchorage.

Soils for Muck.

A correspondent of the New England Farmer writes: "From all I have seen and read about it, I have come to the conclusion that it is not so much in the muck as in the soil to which it is applied. If you have a piece of dry, sandy land, muck of any kind will be a great benefit to it,—the more muck the better. But on land that is swampy or wet and heavy it will be of little if any use. Such a soil should have sand carted on to it and ploughed in, and by mixing the two different soils together a great improvement will be effected. I am acquainted with a piece of land in a village that is nothing but muck and bog. A good part of it is cultivated. In the first place sand is carted on and mingled with the surface soil. Here they have as good gardens as there are in the village. Hence I am satisfied that muck should be used on light, sandy soils, especially if it is applied in a crude state. A correspondent in a late number of the Farmer spoke of using it with good results on a gravelly knoll. This also goes to corroborate the correctness of my theory. But muck in a crude state, or fresh from the bog, will be of little benefit on some kinds of land, while on others it will do much good. Hence the different results of experiments, and consequently different opinions of farmers on the subject. Muck is of little if any use as a manure, but as an absorbent it is valuable. If drawn into the hog yard and left for the hogs to root over and mix with straw and weeds that can be pulled and thrown into the yard, a great deal of manure can be made.

Boston, Jan. 1, 1871.—1yr.

$500 WILL BE FORFEITED BY DR. L. DIX if failing to cure in less time than any other physician, more effectually and permanently, with less restraint from occupation or fear of exposure to all weather, with safe and pleasant medicines.

SELF ABUSE AND SOLITARY HABITS,
Their effects and consequences;
SPECIAL AILMENTS AND SITUATIONS
Incident to Married and Single Ladies
SECRET AND DELICATE DISORDERS;

Mercurial Affections, Eruptions and all Diseases of the Skin; Ulcers of the Nose, Throat and Body; Pimples on the Face; Swellings of the Joints; Nervousness; Constitutional and other Weaknesses in Youth, and the more advanced, at all ages, of BOTH SEXES, SINGLE OR MARRIED.
DR. L. DIX'S
PRIVATE MEDICAL OFFICE,
No. 21 Endicott Street, Boston, Mass., is so arranged that patients never see or hear each other. Recollect the ONLY entrance to his Office is No. 21, having no connection with his residence, consequently no family interruption, so that on no account can any person hesitate applying at his office.

boldly asserts (and it cannot be contradicted except by Quacks, who will do or say anything, even perjure themselves, to impose upon patients) that he is the only regular graduate physician advertising in Boston.
TWENTY YEARS
engaged in treatment of Special Diseases, a fact so well known to many Citizens, Publishers, Merchants, Hotel Proprietors, &c., that he is much recommended, and particularly to Strangers and Travelers.
To avoid and escape Imposition of Foreign and Native Quacks, more numerous in Boston than other large cities.

DR. L. DIX

proudly refers to Professors and respectable Physicians—many of whom consult him in critical cases, because of his acknowledged skill and reputation, attained through so long experience, practice and observation.

AFFLICTED AND UNFORTUNATE! be not robbed and add to your sufferings in being deceived by the lying boasts, misrepresentations, false promises and pretensions of
FOREIGN AND NATIVE QUACKS, who know little of the nature and character of Special Diseases, and LESS as to their cure. Some exhibit forged Diplomas of Institutions or Colleges which never existed in any part of the world; others exhibit Diplomas of the Dead, how obtained, unknown; not only assuming and advertising in names of those inserted in the Diplomas, but to further their imposition assume names of other most celebrated Physicians long since dead. Neither be deceived by QUACK NOSTRUM MAKERS,
through false certificates and references, and recommendations of their medicines BY THE DEAD, who cannot expose or contradict them; or who, besides, to further their imposition, copy from Medical books much that is written of the qualities and effects of different herbs and plants, and ascribe all the same to their Pills, Extracts, Specifics, &c., most of which, if not all, contain Mercury, because of the ancient belief of its "curing everything," but now known to "kill more than it cures," and those not killed, constitutionally injured for life.

IGNORANCE OF QUACK DOCTORS AND NOSTRUM MAKERS.

Through the ignorance of the Quack Doctor, knowing no other remedy, he relies upon MERCURY, and gives it to all his patients in Pills, Drops, &c., so the Nostrum Maker, equally ignorant, adds to his so-called Extracts, Specific, Antidote, &c., both relying upon its effects in curing a few in a hundred, it is trumpeted in various ways throughout the land; but, ALAS! nothing is said of the balance; some of whom die, others grow worse, and are left to linger and suffer for months or years until relieved or cured, if possible, by competent physicians.

BUT ALL QUACKS ARE NOT IGNORANT.

Notwithstanding the foregoing facts are known to some Quack Doctors and Nostrum Makers, yet, regardless of the life and health of others, there are those among them who will perjure themselves, contradicting giving mercury to their patients or that it is contained in their Nostrums, so that the "usual fee" may be obtained for professedly curing, or "the dollar" or "fraction of it" may be obtained for the Nostrum. It is thus that many are deceived also, and uselessly spend large amounts for experiments with quackery.

charges are very moderate. Communications sacredly confidential, and all may rely on him with the strictest secrecy and confidence, whatever may be the disease, condition or situation of any one, married or single.

TO THE LADIES.—The celebrated DR. L. DIX particularly invites all ladies who need a Medical or Surgical adviser, to call at his Rooms, No. 21 Endicott Street, Boston, Mass., which they will find arranged for their special accommodation.

Dr. DIX having devoted over twenty years to this particular branch of the treatment of all diseases peculiar to females, it is now conceded by all (both in this country and in Europe) that he excels all other known practitioners in the safe, speedy and effectual treatment of all female complaints.

His medicines are prepared with the express purpose of removing all diseases, such as debility, weakness, unnatural suppressions, enlargements of the womb, also all discharges which flow from a morbid state of the blood. The Doctor is now fully prepared to treat in his peculiar style, both medically and surgically, all diseases of the female sex, and they are respectfully invited to call at
